

The median salary
for an instructional coordinator professional in 2021 was $63,740

Bureau of Labor Statistics, U.S. Department of Labor, www.bls.gov/ooh/education-training-and-library/instructional-coordinators.htm (06/2022)

GRADUATE CERTIFICATE IN Online Development

ADVANCE YOUR INSTRUCTIONAL DESIGN CAREER WITH 4 COURSES

UT's Graduate Certificate in Online Development gives students pursuing a career in instructional design and technology with an extraordinary advantage that prepares them to excel in today's evolving job market that favors advanced, skill-based training.

This unique graduate certificate was created in recognition of the exceptional quality of UT's academic programs, and the University's mission to support new continuing education and professional growth opportunities.

This graduate certificate prepares students with the necessary skills to succeed as an instructional designer in any setting, and can be earned after completing one core course:

Introduction to Instructional Design and three elective courses from the following:

Development of Multimedia Instruction

Design of Online Collaborative Learning

Introduction to Distance Learning

Media for Instruction

Additionally, credits earned in this program can be applied toward the pursuit of UT's M.S. in Instructional Design and Technology.

Qualified candidates who earned a bachelor's degree must submit and complete the following:

- Résumé
- Two professional reference forms
- Minimum 2.75 GPA or master's degree from a regionally accredited college
- Personal statement